

Buddy Farmer a man known for his passion and his encyclopedic knowledge of great coach legends had the vision to turn 'Something in the Game' that focused on Knute Rockne into a musical, and he did just that over a decade ago at The Theatre in the Center in Indiana with a stellar cast.

Director David H. Bell brings to the stage a new and rewritten version of "Something in the Game: An All American- Musical," the story which centers on Rockne family, fame, and of course, football.

The American Music Theatre Project and Wirtz Center for the Performing Arts provides an exceptional performance throughout with this rendition.

For the sports enthusiasts, Let's Play highly recommend that you come and see 'Something in the Game: An All-American Musical. It will remind you of what we truly believe in, to help us regain our self-truth and rediscover ourselves.
